

I am growing more and more in my faith, wisdom, courage and gratitude. I pray, believe and act with positive expectation. I am committed to growing in my thoughts, habits and priorities to enrich my family life, health, finances, purpose, faith and life balance. I am willing to release the thoughts, habits and relationships that are unhealthy and destructive to my well-being. I place my energy and attention on the right priorities and actions which produces positive results. I am breaking the spell and strongholds of lack, low self-esteem, anger, depression and disorganization. I declare and decree that I can reclaim my joy, purpose, confidence and value. The more I confront and conquer my old habits and old thoughts...the more joy, peace and success I experience. I confess and possess my personal destiny to be the best and the blessed. I thank the Lord in advance for His mercy, grace, favor, power, peace and provision in my life. I can speak those things that be not now as I pray my blessings forward. I thank the Lord in advance for what He is doing now and going to do in the future to take my life to the next level. I position myself for greatness by letting go of the poor habits of procrastination, worry, depression and low self-esteem. I am now giving my dreams some wings so I can soar and serve my family and others with my ideas, talents and testimony. I am committed to living my life with faith, integrity, love, health, wealth, harmony and service to others. I am focused. I follow through. I select my goals. I start and sustain my actions to succeed. I am a creature of habit and will read this daily to create the momentum and mindset that will unconsciously create the health, wealth, peace, love and my God ordained destiny of success. (written by Jewel Diamond Taylor – www.PrayItForwardToday.com)